Heavy building materials 70% of CSR group earnings at end Sept 02 (business EBIT)

Note: Based on business EBIT from CSR Annual Reports; excludes corporate costs and unallocated gains/losses (eg major land sales)

CSR

Around three quarters of CSR group EBIT today comes from heavy building materials...that is aggregates, concrete, cement and concrete pipes and products

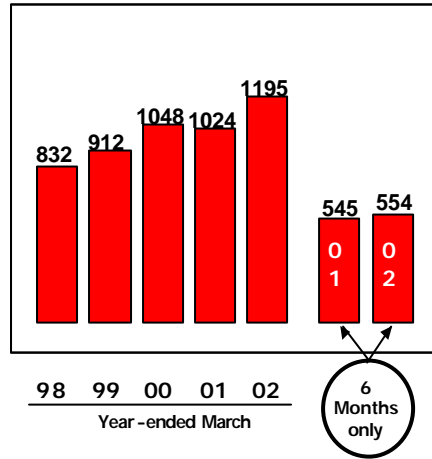

You can see the very significant change in the portfolio over the past few years.

- The return on funds employed also continues to improve – although it does bounce around with acquisitions.
- Return on equity has more than doubled over the past five years.

Strong financial position

* Includes Kiewit Materials. Red line shows the gearing ratio at 24% if Kiewit excluded.

CSR

- CSR's financial position is very strong.
- Gearing is up this year due to the acquisition of Kiewit.
- But interest cover of almost 12 times at the half year ended September is extremely comfortable.

CSR group strategy... a demerger into 2 different companies is the logical next step to complete the separation process

11

- The logical next step in our strategy to build value then is to complete this separation process through a demerger.
- The demerger involves spinning off the heavy building materials assets out of CSR.....and forming a new company called Rinker Group Ltd (“Rinker Group”).
- CSR Limited will then comprise :
 - the Building Products business – which is the leading manufacturer of building products in Australia
 - our Aluminium interest – which holds a 25% stake in the Tomago aluminium smelter near Newcastle, and
 - CSR Sugar, which is among the largest and most efficient sugar cane milling businesses in the world.

Two strong Australian listed companies, appealing to different groups of investors

RINKER

Rinker Group Limited (RGL)

One of the world's top 10 heavy building materials companies, growing strongly and building strong regional market positions in its key products...

CSR

CSR Limited

A higher dividend yielding, diversified company, with a stable earnings history, strong cash flows and some of Australia's best known household brands...

We will then have two separate Australian companies – both listed on the Australian Stock Exchange, both expected to be within the ASX Top 100 and both headquartered in Australia.

Strategic rationale and benefits of a demerger

- In line with CSR strategy since 1998 for separation and growth of heavy building materials while lifting shareholder value
- Creates two strong, focused companies – both investment grade, and expected to be in ASX Top 100
- Precedents show step change in management and board focus lead to improved performance over time
- Improved ability to pursue growth options, including longer term flexibility for RGL equity as acquisition currency, if appropriate
- Separation offers a clear outcome and provides shareholder choice
- Dividend policy and capital allocation to better facilitate individual business strategies
- Clearer alignment of employee compensation plans with shareholder value for Rinker people
- Opportunity for stock market re-rating

Costs of the demerger

- Transaction cost of $75 million before tax or est. A$54m after tax, ie a one-off impact of 5.8 cents per share
 - adviser, legal and expert fees, stamp duty, insurance (A$32m)
 - once-up cost of establishing RGL as a separate entity (A$28m)
 - refinancing costs (including restructuring US bonds) (A$15m)
- Lower LT credit ratings but ratings agencies have indicated investment grade for both RGL and CSR
- Short term impact on CSR's ability to pay fully-franked dividends; Rinker's franking capacity will be lower but solid earnings from Readymix will underpin franking for shareholders
- Post-demerger, additional cost of RGL and CSR operating as independent, separately listed companies

The demerger is estimated to cost around $75 million pre-tax and around $54 million after tax – or a one-off cost of just 5.8 cents per share.

That compares with $65 million for each of the BHP Steel and One Steel demergers – both of which were significantly smaller – and around $127 million for Western Mining.

In summary

- Improved performance over past 5 years
- Further opportunity to enhance value with a demerger
- Two strong companies – both likely investment grade, history of solid cash flows, leading market positions, strong management & proven performance versus peers
- Expect CSR to be a higher yield stock; Rinker a growth stock
- Rinker growth : plentiful bolt-on opportunities, solid acquisition track record and financial strength to support funding
- CSR growth : sensible growth options to supplement performance improvement focus
- Objective to deliver further value to current shareholders
